MAD Diversity Town Hall Meeting

MAD is hosting the second Diversity Town Hall on January 21, 2021, at 5:30 - 6:30 pm via Zoom, open to all MAD participants. This will continue our discussion on diversity and anti-racism. You can read the Executive Council's Black Lives Matter statement here: <https://www.madtheater.org/BLM.html>

We especially encourage past and future MAD leadership (producers, directors, etc.) and members of marginalized identities to attend and participate, so that we have the voices needed to continue to effectively understand and address MAD's diversity issues.

RSVP for the Diversity Town Hall here, and we will email you the Zoom link on the day of the Town Hall: <https://forms.gle/xrQSFhmZCwBfGoWd8>

We look forward to seeing you there!

MAD Member Updates

From Betsy Edwards: “I am now happily retired and enjoying spending more time with Joe. Looking forward to the end of the pandemic so I can devote more time to THEATRE!!!”

From Meg and Dave Larko: “We will have a new address as of early January 2021. We are moving back to Dave's home town of Indiana, PA. The new address is: Dave and Megan Larko (and Bristol-dog), 459 Edgewood Avenue, Indiana, PA 15701-7448. (For extra credit, what can you spell with the "plus-4" part of our new zip code? Smile!)”

John McCloskey has written and self-published his first book, entitled “Sarge and the Giant Pawprint: A Journey with Cats on the Circle of Life”. It started as the story of a very special cat named Sarge, who died in April 2018 and of the lives, human and feline, on which he left a giant pawprint. Ultimately, it is a story of a journey on the Circle of Life that shows how a very painful loss can be transformed into something wonderful.
